Promise of cash for town centre

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

THE developer behind plans for a £12 million businesses and retail park has offered to pay for town centre improvements worth £250,000.

HPG Developments, which wants to build a major business and shopping park on the former Project Office Furniture site at Hamlet Green in Haverhill, has pledged the cash.

The Cambridge-based firm also promised to donate land to the community. If the plans get the green light, it will give almost an acre of land to the borough council to substantially increase and improve the neighbouring former railway walk wildlife site.

It has also promised to make a contribution towards its maintenance and improvement works.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee will meet in the town next Thursday to make a decision on the planning application.

It is expected up to 260 new jobs could be created.

HPG announced in August that it had secured national DIY chain Wickes as its first tenant for the scheme.

The proposals also include new business starter units, a new family restaurant, additional retail warehouse units, and new car parking/cycle stands.

Canon says farewell after 36 years . . .

Retiring: Canon John Rankin, vicar of Clare, is retiring after 36 years in the post.

Picture: Keith Jones 685524/685526.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Long-serving clergyman Canon John Rankin will retire after more than 36 years as a Church of England minister on Sunday.

Canon Rankin, 64, will hold his final service at St Peter and St Paul Church, Clare, at 3.30pm when he and his wife, Elizabeth, will say their farewells before retiring to Uppingham in Rutland.

As rector, Canon Rankin has headed the Stour Valley group of parishes for nearly 18 years. It includes five other parishes as well as Clare – Stoke by Clare, Hundon, Cavendish, Poslingford and Wixoe.

He said: "In one way it's a new stage in life and we're looking forward to that. But there's also a special sadness in leaving the parishes I've enjoyed so much."

Canon Rankin, originally from Birkenhead on Merseyside, was a school chaplain in Bristol and a curate in the St John's Wood area of London.

Before moving to Clare he was a vicar of a group of parishes in North Buckinghamshire.

His wife has been administrator for the Stour

Valley benefice.

The post of rector is expected to remain vacant for some months while a successor is found. In the meantime other members of the clergy will fill in.

Clare Church, which dates from the 15th century, is one of the largest in Suffolk.

■ Canon Dr Frances Ward will be installed as the new Dean of St Edmundsbury at a service in Bury St Edmunds Cathedral on Saturday.

She is only the fourth woman to be appointed Dean by the Church of England.

She said: "It's an immensely exciting time for the cathedral, and a tremendous privilege to serve the towns and villages of the diocese of Ipswich and St Edmundsbury in the years to come as Dean. "I think we are at the beginning of something new and exciting in God's plans for us."

"With a new tower to celebrate and a new organ to sound forth the glory of God, I look forward to a time of renaissance within the church and renewed confidence in its role in British society."

She and her husband Peter, a consultant paediatrician, have four children – Matilda, 23, Jonty, 21, Theo, 18, and Hugh, 13, and a dog called Phoebe.

Canon Ward succeeds The Very Reverend Neil Collings who retired as Dean of St Edmundsbury in August 2009 due to ill health and died in June.

“In one way it's a new stage in life and we're looking forward to that. But there's also a special sadness in leaving the parishes I've enjoyed so much.”

International exchanges

HAVERHILL International Women's Group will meet on Wednesday in St Edmundsbury Borough Council offices starting at 11am.

The new group is due to meet once a month to help members learn more about living in Haverhill. It is a volunteer-led group organised to provide mutual support to women of all nationalities living in and around Haverhill.

Activities will include social activities, learning, sharing, training opportunities, cultural exchange, volunteering and language knowledge exchange.

The group aims to create a forum for sharing and learning about the community and its cultures. Anyone interested in joining the group or those wanting to find out more can contact the Haverhill Volunteer Centre on (01440) 708444 or email info@hvc.org.uk

Arsonists set fire to doormat

POLICE are treating an incident in which a cigarette was put through a letterbox as arson endangering life.

The occupants of the house in Castle Lane, Haverhill, discovered a small fire on the doormat and were able to extinguish it before serious damage was caused. Anyone with information about the incident, which happened between 10pm and 10.05pm last Thursday, should call Pc Rebecca Molisso at Haverhill Police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Court date for assault accused

A MAN has been charged with assaulting three women – two of them police officers. Steven Wilson, 40, of Ponteland, Newcastle Upon Tyne, is accused of assaulting the women during a disturbance in Tower Court, Haverhill, on Thursday, August 12.

He is due to appear before magistrates at Bury St Edmunds on Monday.

Fire crew frees locked-in child

FIREFIGHTERS reunited a parent with their child after the youngster became locked in alone at their home. One crew from Haverhill was called to the town's Green Road at 2pm on Saturday. They got into the house through a second floor dormer window within 10 minutes.

Telling tips: Marion Leeper, right, at the session for adults at Cartwheels Children's Centre.

Picture: Duncan Lamont 684947.

Adults and children benefit from storyteller's visit

STORYTELLER Marion Leeper entertained children and adults at two sessions this week.

She kept under fives spellbound with tales of magic and fantasy at Cartwheels Children's Centre in Norton Road, Haverhill. It was the adults' turn in the afternoon when Marion gave parents and guardians some tips about telling stories to keep youngsters amused.

Cllr Anne Gower, who chairs the management board at the centre, said: "She is an amazing storyteller."

Developer's cash for town centre

The developer has said the scheme could create around 260 jobs.

William Jewson, development director at HPG, said: "As a local business, with a long term interest in the Hamlet Green site, the Howard Group [parent group of HPG] is fully committed to playing its part in investing in the future of Haverhill.

"We believe that our proposals not only offer a huge boost to the town in attracting a major retailer and generating new job opportunities but will also complement and not compete with the town centre.

"Given the fragile state of both the local and national economies, it is of critical importance that regeneration schemes such as this are able to come forward with the jobs and investment they offer, and we are confident that the council will be able to approve our plans in the very near future."

If the plans are approved the company hopes to start work on the site early next year.

The council meeting will be held at the town's football complex in Chalkstone Way starting at 10am.

Cllr Anne Gower, a member of the town, borough and county councils, said: "As this planning application has caused a lot of comment I would like to encourage people to register to speak and to come along and hear the committee discuss this proposition."

Anyone wanting to address the meeting must contact the council by 5pm the day before by calling democratic services (01284) 757107, 757176 or 757118 or email to democratic.services@stedsbc.gov.uk

Man told 'no call for attack'

A MAN grabbed his girlfriend by the throat during an argument at their home, a court heard.

Scott Whan, 21, of St James Court, Haverhill, and Jane Chesnall had both been drinking and shown violence towards each other before the incident happened on April 24.

Ipswich Crown Court heard last week that Whan had put his hands around Ms Chesnall's throat, resulting in marks and swelling.

Whan had pleaded guilty to an earlier hearing to an offence of common assault.

Richard Potts, mitigating, said that although Whan had been subject to a community punishment imposed by magistrates for offences including possession of a bladed article and causing criminal damage, the unpaid work he had been ordered to undertake had impressed the company involved.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Potts said Whan was now hoping to achieve his ambition of securing a post with the business as an apprentice electrician.

Whan was still with Ms Chesnall and she was supporting him, the court was told.

Sentencing him, Judge Peter Fenn told Whan: "You have to realise that in a domestic relationship there are always going to be arguments and disagreements and they are not helped when either party is under the influence of alcohol."

He added: "You have also got to realise whatever the provocation and whatever the argument is about there is absolutely no call for a young, fit, reasonably well built young man to act with violence towards his wife."

Judge Fenn said Whan's existing community order imposed by magistrates will remain in force, with an added requirement that he remains under Probation Service supervision for the next two years.

Judge Fenn said that during that period Whan would be required to address issues surrounding alcohol, literacy and examine the consequences of his actions.

He said: "I very much hope you have learned your lesson and will not come back before the courts."

Consultation to decide fate of care home

THE fate of Haverhill's only council-run residential care home is in the balance.

A public consultation on the future of Place Court, in Camps Road, will run from November 1 until January 24.

Residents, their relatives and carers will be asked for their views on what should happen to the 31-bed facility, which offers care for dementia sufferers. Options being considered in a Suffolk County Council paper include closing the home and commissioning services from the private sector, or selling it as a going concern.

Cllr Colin Noble, the council's portfolio holder for adult and community services, said: "It's important that, whatever we decide to do, we do with extreme sensitivity, consideration and care."

The paper, which looks at what to do with 16 care homes across the county, was agreed by the council's cabinet on Tuesday.

Young dance champs are national stars

TEENAGE dance partners Eliot Manning and Megan Williams have become national champions.

Eliot, 13, and Megan, 14, both from Haverhill, are members of the Hot Steps Dance Academy, which holds classes in the town.

The pair, students at

Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College, won their awards at the ISTD Disco Freestyle and Rock 'n' Roll Grand Finals at the weekend.

Eliot won the Under 14 Pre Bronze Street set dance when he competed against 45 other youngsters. All pupils attending the grand finals had to qualify at area events that took place throughout the year.

Eliot and Megan then went on to be crowned National Winners of the Under 14 Bronze and Below Rock 'n' Roll event. Other successful pupils from Hot Steps Dance Academy, who also qualified for the competition, were Laura Dodd, Madeline Dickie, Elanor Colley, Emma Sanderson and Leanne Clare.

The Hot Steps Academy also holds classes in Steeple Morden and Papworth Everard.

Inspirational swimmer wins two gold medals

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

INTERNATIONAL swimmer Tom Cole came back from the World Downs Syndrome Championships in Taiwan with two gold medals.

Tom, who learnt to swim with Haverhill Leisure Centre's swim scheme, won gold in the 400m and 800m freestyle. He also won silver in the 200m individual medley and the 200m backstroke.

Tom, 21, was the only member of the GB team to win gold. It was the fourth time Tom has competed in the world championships and he competed against Downs swimmers from 28 countries.

Tom also beat his personal bests in the 800m freestyle, 200m individual medley, 100m individual medley, and 200m backstroke.

He returned to Haverhill pool where he trains and is a sporting ambassador for Abbeycroft Leisure.

He said: "I am very happy. I was confident that I could do well and when I finished I knew I had won."

He said he was looking forward to taking his medals in to work at Marks and Spencer in Bury St Edmunds at the weekend and to show fellow swimmers at the West Suffolk Swimming Club.

His mum Barbara said he

I am very happy. I was confident that I could do well and when I finished I knew I had won."

Tom Cole

would not have learnt to swim, let alone achieved these amazing successes without, the support of Abbeycroft Leisure, his Haverhill swim coach Pat Jason and the swim scheme.

She said: "It was without doubt the best moment of my life. Tom achieved everything I could have dreamed for him. I am very proud."

"Tom trains every week day at Haverhill Leisure Centre as part of the swim scheme, West Suffolk Swimming Club and in the gym."

Mary Edwards, swim scheme co-ordinator at Haverhill Leisure Centre, said: "Tom will be an inspiration to others in the swim scheme of what can be achieved with hard work. He is really an inspiration to everyone."

For his coach of six years, Pat, it was a dream come true to see Tom compete in the world championships and win gold.

She said: "I knew Tom had put the work in and would do his very best. He was up against swimmers of a very high standard, in particular the Australians who did very well."

"When he received his gold medals they played the national anthem which was very moving."

Flu jab offer for pregnant women

PREGNANT women in Cambridgeshire are for the first time being offered the seasonal flu vaccination.

All people across the county who are at risk of seasonal flu are being encouraged to protect themselves by getting their free vaccination.

Everyone aged 65 and over is routinely offered the jab, as are younger people with long-term conditions such as heart disease, diabetes, asthma, multiple sclerosis, serious kidney and liver disease.

Around 15 million people in the UK have the jab, which must be administered every year as it is altered to match the flu strains in circulation.

This year, NHS Cambridgeshire is inviting pregnant women to receive a free seasonal vaccination as it protects against the H1N1 virus (swine flu) that will still be circulating this winter. Pregnant women who catch this strain are at an increased risk of severe illness.

Every year there are approximately 8,000 seasonal flu-related deaths in the winter months in England and Wales.

As well as immunisation, people are encouraged to protect themselves by carrying tissues, covering coughs and sneezes with a tissue and cleaning hands as soon as possible with soap and water or an alcohol hand gel.

For further information on where you can receive your vaccination, contact your local GP.

Police helicopters in trial link up

FIVE police forces pooled resources in a three-month trial to share the use of helicopters.

Cambridgeshire, Suffolk, Essex, Norfolk and Kent took part in the trial during April, May and June.

Helicopters were directed to where they were needed in the five counties from a single point of contact control centre.

During the trial more than 1,500 incidents were attended across the counties. The results showed increases in arrests, locating missing people and finding stolen or suspect vehicles.

Chief Inspector Ady Dawson, of Suffolk police's specialist operations unit, said: "This trial was not only about trying to identify potential future cost savings but also about identifying areas where improvement can be made and a better level of service can be offered to the public."

"Air Support Units are extremely valuable tools in policing our region's counties and by working together an increase in the amount of positive results was seen."

The trial was an additional aspect of the National Review of Police Air Operations, which is being led by Chief Constable Alex Marshall in Hampshire. Further trials are likely to take place in the future.

Riders must stay off zebra crossings

Sir, Regarding the article about a girl run down while cycling across a zebra crossing (Cyclist's plea after accident at crossing - Weekly News, October 7).

Maybe if we still taught the highway code to children these sort of accidents wouldn't happen.

Zebra crossings are for pedestrians, not cyclists - a cycle travels much faster than a pedestrian. The driver may well not have seen the cyclist.

Violence victims given phones to stay in touch

A MOBILE phone company has given phones to help victims of domestic abuse stay in touch with police and other agencies.

The 10 phones donated by Carphone Warehouse will be distributed through the Victim Care Centre in Bury St Edmunds.

They will be formally presented to the centre tomorrow.

Victim care officer Nina Martin has worked with the Carphone Warehouse to obtain the phones, and said they were needed to provide a valuable link or to call emergency services.

She said: "The phones will be loaned out to certain people who have no other means of communicating with others - for example, victims who have had to move out of their home because of domestic abuse, maybe to a refuge, or someone whose partner restricts their access to money. The phones all come with pre-paid credit to enable recipients to make emergency calls if they need to.

"We are very grateful for the Carphone Warehouse's support of this initiative, which will provide reassurance to some of the most vulnerable people in West Suffolk."

Detective Inspector Adrian Randall who manages the victim care centre in Bury St Edmunds, said: "These mobile phones will add to our capability and, through a risk assessment process, be allocated to appropriate victims referred to the Victim Care Centre."

"These phones will in certain circumstances assist in the safeguarding of some domestic abuse victims, and thereby help a victim break free from the abuse they are suffering."

By working closely in partnership with support agencies such as Women's Aid, refuges, victim support, adult and children's services, probation, court services domestic violence forums, health and the voluntary sector and many more organisations across the county, it is hoped the cycle of domestic violence can be broken.

Victims can be supported when they come forward, and Suffolk Constabulary can take positive action and enforcement when responding to incidents.

To report an incident of domestic violence call the police on (01473) 613500. In an emergency call 999.

There is also a 24 hour confidential helpline, which does not involve the police, on 0800 783 5121 and a website www.breakthepattern.org.uk

There is also an advice line for male victims 0800 801 0327.

Responders take off with Helimedix

COMMUNITY first responders at emergency medical charity Magpas Helimedix have been handed over to the ambulance service.

The non-medical volunteers, who provide emergency life-saving treatments to patients, have for the last decade been the responsibility of Magpas, now known as Magpas Helimedix.

But as of October 1, the Community First Responder (CFR) scheme became part of the network of 250 groups within the East of England, managed and funded by the region's ambulance service.

The first responders will now receive the same training as others in the Eastern region and all equipment has been handed over to the ambulance service by Magpas Helimedix.

The types of emergencies first responders attend include choking, cardiac arrests and strokes, and they will continue to do so.

This year Magpas Helimedix budgeted £100,000 for the CFR scheme, which means the charity could save that amount each year going forward.

The volunteers have been encouraged to continue to fundraise for Magpas Helimedix, as it still runs its emergency medical team of doctors and paramedics.

BY SUZAN UZEL

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Daryl Brown, charity manager at Magpas Helimedix, who is also a community first responder, said it was the "right time" and "a natural progression" for the 41 Cambridgeshire groups to join others in the region.

He added: "There was a funny situation in that in other counties people paid taxes and one of the things they were provided with was the community first responders.

"But in Cambridgeshire people were being asked to help fund something (through Magpas fundraising) that was being provided in other counties."

He added: "It's not actually going to change the service. No-one is going to see an awful lot of difference.

"The commitment of our volunteers has been key to the success of Magpas over the past 40 years. I would like to thank all of the first responders for their dedication to saving lives in their communities and wish the scheme every continued success under the leadership of the ambulance service."

First responders have been called to more than 12,000 patients and have notched up 900,000 voluntary hours of community service for the county.

Singer Michael serves his time

POP star George Michael was released from prison on Tuesday after serving half his eight-week sentence.

Michael, 47, was freed from Highpoint Prison after serving time for crashing his Range Rover while high on cannabis.

The ex-Wham! star, real name Georgios Panayiotou, was jailed on September 14 after he admitted driving while unfit through drugs, and possessing two cannabis cigarettes, when he appeared at London's Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court.

Free: George Michael was released from Highpoint.

Musical superstar loses cancer fight

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A WORLD-CLASS mandolin player who lost her battle with cancer has been described by her mother as "the most wonderful daughter".

Alison Stephens died at the Arthur Rank Hospice on Sunday, aged 40, two days after she was admitted.

Tributes have flooded in from around the world to the woman who raised thousands of pounds for charity.

The youngest of four children, Alison told her mother Jackie Green, who lives in Haverhill, at the age of 13 she wanted to be a professional musician.

Alison was the first graduate of mandolin from Trinity College of Music in London and was immediately appointed a teacher, aged 22.

She was diagnosed with cervical cancer in 2008 and started treatment at Addenbrooke's Hospital.

Alison, from Eynesbury, St Neots, had a revolutionary form of targeted radiation treatment called TomoTherapy and the prognosis appeared good.

But Jackie said: "She was admitted as an emergency case to Hinchingbrooke Hospital in June.

"She was transferred to Addenbrooke's and had three sessions of chemotherapy but a scan showed it had gone to her brain, her liver and kidneys.

"She struggled on, she was in terrible pain and she went down very quickly.

"She was the most wonderful daughter in character and talent any mother could have wished for."

Alison taught around the world and wrote and played music for various movies, including The Queen and Fantastic Mr Fox.

Jackie said: "We have had tributes coming in from all over the world."

Alison's partner, Mitch Harris, said he had suffered a "huge loss".

He said: "She was very much a Tigger personality - it was fantastic to be with her.

"She spent her life promoting classical mandolin. There was a huge amount of love for her globally."

He said funeral arrangements are Talented: Alison Stephens who died aged 40. A scholarship in her name will be set up at Trinity College of Music in London.

being finalised, along with a memorial concert at Trinity College where a scholarship will be set up in her name.

Alison struck up a friendship with actor and storyteller Mike Maran, who was also undergoing treatment for cancer, and they began working with writer Louis de Bernieres on projects related to his book, Captain Corelli's Mandolin.

The pair set up Captain Corelli's Cambridge Cancer Club which aimed to raise £100,000 for Addenbrooke's Charitable Trust, Macmillan Cancer Support and the KIS Endowment Fund.

Alison donated the royalties of her CD Souvenirs, to Macmillan and said her battle with cancer was "a very life-affirming experience".

Shoppers asked to rate facilities in town centre

A CONSULTATION about shopping in Haverhill will continue until the end of November.

It is the first survey of its kind in five years and aims to find out what residents and visitors want in a bid to boost the town centre.

Haverhill Chamber of Commerce, West Suffolk College, Samuel Ward and Castle Manor colleges, MENTA, the Job Centre, Abbeycroft Leisure and town centre management have compiled the survey with local businesses.

Copies of the survey forms should be available in local shops.

It asks people to rate the shops and other facilities such as car parks, restaurants, cafes and toilets.

There is a prize draw with £100 in shopping vouchers up for grabs to encourage people to fill in the forms.

Forms should be sent or delivered to Tina Hanks, the town centre manager, at the St Edmundsbury Borough Council offices in Haverhill or email Tina.Hanks@stedsb.gov.uk

Air battle inspires fireworks

A FIREWORKS display will feature a tribute to the Battle of Britain.

The ever-popular Linton Fireworks Display will include special sound and light effects inspired by the epic 1940 air conflict.

Tickets are now on sale for the event on Saturday, November 6, which will take place on the field behind Linton Infants School. Gates open at 6pm and the guy competition will be judged at 6.30pm before the bonfire is lit.

The main fireworks display, sponsored by Camgrain, will start shortly after 7pm.

Advance tickets cost £8 for a family of five (two adults and three children) and £3 for an individual. Tickets on the night will be available at the gate for £10 and £4 respectively.

They can be bought in advance at all three Linton schools, the village newsagents and post office or online at www.lintonfireworks.co.uk

Crews hit new heights with work safe training

New equipment: Simon Cornwell in the harness with, from left, Craig Ross, Rick Clarke, Marc Elliott and crew manager Ken Ashby.

Pictures: Richard Patterson 684393.

FIREFIGHTERS have completed training to comply with the latest regulations on working at height.

Haverhill and Newmarket are among five fire stations across Suffolk where crew members have qualified for doing advanced work at height.

Training has included climbing cranes in Felixstowe docks and a crane on the site of the new Premier Inn in Newmarket.

Ken Ashby, crew manager at Newmarket, said: "We're grateful to Barnes Construction, the contractors working on the Premier Inn, for allowing us to hold exercises on the site."

"Other exercises were also held at the July Racecourse and we want to thank the racecourse management for letting us do so."

Further training was carried out at Churchill Court flats in Newmarket, owned by Kings Forest Housing, and at Anglian Water's Kennett pumping station where the techniques were tested for making a rescue from underground.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

At Newmarket, 23 of the 25 full time and on-call – formerly known as retained – firefighters have been given the training in using the ropes and other equipment which became operational from October 1.

Those engaged in working at height wear a new all-in-one overall instead of traditional fire retardant gear.

They have also been allocated new fire engines to carry all the necessary equipment.

At Newmarket the crew has also been allocated a second new fire engine to replace an older pump rescue tender, fitted with specialised cutting gear and other equipment for use in road crashes – particularly on the A14.

The new machines, which cost around £250,000 each, have 280 horsepower engines and computer-controlled pumps.

They are built by Scottish company Emergency One on a Volvo chassis and have new "wailer" sirens.

Two bailed over gutter clean con

TWO men have been released on bail after they were arrested as part of a police operation against rogue traders.

The men, a 47-year-old from a village north of Cambridge and a 34-year-old from Harlow, Essex, were questioned by Suffolk police investigating an incident in Clare, when a man in his 80s paid more than £2,000 to have the gutters cleared on his home.

The pair were arrested on suspicion of fraud by false representation during the latest deployment by Suffolk police's Operation Seawolf.

Transit van in West Road, Bury St Edmunds, last Tuesday and took the men for questioning at the town's police station about the Clare incident, which happened on September 7.

Both men have now been bailed to return to Bury St Edmunds police station on November 29, pending further inquiries.

Police and trading standards are also investigating a similar incident which happened in Bury St Edmunds this week at the home of a couple in their 80s.

A man called at the address, said they were in the area clearing guttering and offered their services. A short time later the female householder discovered a large part of the guttering at her property had been removed.

Police are asking anyone who may have been approached to have similar work done recently to get in touch with officers if they suspect they may have had similar issues as these offences are continuing to be targeted under Operation Seawolf.

The joint operation involves trading standards and HM Revenue and Customs.

The police use automatic number plate recognition technology to identify suspect vehicles.

Applications flood in for our £15k grants giveaway

THE deadline for applications to our £15,000 charity scheme has now closed – and we are busy assessing the many good schemes seeking grant funding.

Along with our sister paper, the Cambridge News, we have teamed up with Barclays Money Skills for the innovative project, to deliver vital funds that can make a real difference to our community.

Once we have assessed the applications received, we will announce which have been successful and readers of the Cambridge News will be able to support those charities by collecting tokens in the paper.

Barclays Money Skills is about helping people to make informed and impartial financial decisions. The bank also encourages its employees to deliver Barclays Money Skills activities to groups and schools in the community.

If you work with young people, you can apply for Barclays to deliver such a session to your group.

They are suitable for age groups 7-11, 12-15, 14-17 and 16-25 years, or for homeless and vulnerable people.

To apply, visit www.cambridge-news.co.uk and click on the Barclays Money Skills logo at the bottom of the homepage.

Karate and sailing clubs get cash help

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MARTIAL arts group has been given a £780 grant for new safety matting.

Haverhill Wado Karate Club is one of the organisations to receive a grant from Havebury Housing Partnership, which owns former council homes in the Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds areas.

The cash has come from Havebury's community investment fund (CIF) and will go towards the cost of matting for the club, which is based at the town's Chalkstone Community Centre.

A grant of £5,750 has also been given to WASH Sailability, which teaches people with disabilities to sail at Lackford Lakes, near Bury St Edmunds. The cash will be used to buy an Access 303 dinghy, which has special controls that allows a person with disabilities to be taught alongside an expert.

Karen Mayhew, Havebury chief executive, said: "Both groups are of great importance in the Suffolk area."

"WASH Sailability gives an enormous amount of freedom to people with disabilities. The karate club is somewhere the children can improve their health and fitness at the same time as learning respect for others."

Greg Malyon, karate club treasurer, said it would have taken members two or three years to save up money for the new matting.

He said: "We are extremely grateful to Havebury for their contribution to our club."

"Safety is of utmost importance to us and this donation means that we can make sure our members are fully looked after."

Havebury is a not-for-profit housing association which currently manages 6,000 homes.

Since the CIF was set up in 2002, more than £487,000 has been awarded in grants to support 199 community projects.

Beware of motor insurance fraud

Cases of insurance fraud have been on the rise since the recession began. The Association of British Insurers (ABI) puts the total cost to the industry of undetected general insurance claims fraud at £2bn per year. This adds around £40 a year to the insurance premiums paid by all policyholders.

There has been a big rise in organised fraud, where criminal gangs work to systematically defraud insurers. The most common way of doing this is via a "cash for crash" scam, where criminals stage accidents, typically at roundabouts, by suddenly slamming their brakes and causing the car behind to crash into them. The fraudsters then claim for the cost of repair or replacement of their vehicle on the innocent driver's insurance. At a high court case in February, an organised ring of "cash for crash" insurance fraudsters was ordered to pay its victims almost £400,000 after seven insurers joined together and successfully sued the fraud ring.

Make sure that you protect yourself in the event of an accident. Here are a few tips from Saffron Insurance.

1. Stop. If it's dark and you are alone or feel uncomfortable stay in the car and call 999.
2. Check if any one is hurt, if so call 999
3. If you have a camera or phone with you take photos of all vehicles involved.
4. Take notes or draw a rough sketch to help you remember the details.
5. Obtain details of all involved and any witnesses.
6. Record comments and details such as whether the driver was on the phone.
7. Keep your claims number in your phone so that you can call your broker or insurer immediately.

David Beswick managing director of Saffron Insurance comments, "Your safety is of paramount importance. Check you're not hurt and feel comfortable enough to get out of the car. Take as many details as possible and let our claims department handle everything for you."

Rollercoaster ride from a dream life to living rough

Helping homeless: Emma Hyde went from living the high life to hitting the bottle and sleeping on the streets of Cambridge.

Picture: Duncan Lamont 682399

EMMMA Hyde had the kind of life people dream of. Aged 28, she had a husband she adored, a handsome salary, and a high-powered marketing job that took her into the glamorous world of Formula One racing.

She even has a scar on her knee to prove it, following an incident with a dodgem car and Jensen Button...

But today, Emma also bears scars of a different kind. Until two years ago she was sleeping rough on the streets of Cambridge, and shoplifting to get her fix of alcohol.

"My life has been a huge rollercoaster, I've been through every emotion you could have," says Emma, who's 36.

"I had absolutely everything; I was earning in excess of £45,000 a year, I had my false nails done every month, I had a £2,500 suit allowance every six months... and I went from that to drinking 70p cider and picking up dog-ends from the street to roll into a cigarette."

BY EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

It's easy to trace when Emma's problems began; just six weeks after her dream wedding to her partner of eight years, he walked out.

"He left me for a younger model," she says. "I was devastated. He was my first love, and it was a bolt out of the blue."

Emma began to drink heavily: "As soon as I got back from work it'd be a couple of bottles of wine a night. But I knew I had a problem when I used to get up in the morning and think: 'Oh, I'll just have a drink to level myself, and then I'll be able to focus on the day.'"

Her world began to fall apart.

She started slipping into debt, her father died, and soon after she discovered a lump in her breast. Emma had cancer.

"I had to go through chemo, which was horrible. And at the same time I was still a heavy drinker, and hiding it from everyone."

Fortunately the treatment worked, but

Emma didn't give up drinking – and in 2002, she left her job and her Essex village to move to Cambridge.

"I had to leave, there were too many memories," she says. "I like cities, and I thought Cambridge was probably not as much of a monster of a city as London."

But Emma's life soon spiralled out of control. "I was drinking all day, every day," she remembers. "I had a house in Cambridge, but I got into a relationship that got really violent, and ended up having to go into a women's refuge. And while I was there I got into arrears and got evicted. That was when I ended up on the streets."

Sleeping rough was, she says, "very, very scary. I'd sleep in car parks, like Level D at the Lion Yard car park because it was the warmest part, and also outside at the back of Parkside Swimming Pool, because you get the warm air from the vents."

But although she was scared, she found friendship in the homeless community.

"There is an amazing camaraderie there," says

Emma. "People would take it in turns to sleep, so you could get a half-decent night's sleep knowing that other people would stay awake and watch out for the Old Bill or any other trouble."

Emma spent her days with her new-found friends, and shoplifted to get her alcohol. One quirky memory always stands out for her:

"There was a group of us sitting in the market square, and for about the fourth time that day, somebody had come up and offered their chips to us. And I thought: 'This is absolutely ridiculous, homeless people don't just eat chips!' So I promptly walked into Marks and Sparks and walked out with two freshly-dressed lobsters, two bottles of Champagne and a bottle of Chablis."

"We had a fantastic picnic. But obviously the first rule of shoplifting is never go to the same site more than once... and on my third time I got caught and hauled up in front of the magistrate."

"She said: 'Miss Hyde, have you got anything to say?' And I said 'Homeless people are fed up of eating chips! We're humans, and I thought we deserved a treat'. She gave me a little smile... and a £40 fine."

But life as a hard drinker was tough, and it was only after six long years on Cambridge's streets that Emma had her wake-up call.

"They said: 'If you don't stop drinking, within three months you will be dead'."

"Which is the worst thing you can say to somebody, because I just went on a massive bender for three months. And then I thought: 'Hmm, I'm not dead. Better do something about it'."

"Plus I was fed up of having to go shoplifting for my booze, and fed up of having to scabble around for 70p so I could have a can of cider inside me before I went shoplifting. I thought I was better than that."

But perhaps Emma's biggest inspiration was meeting Andy, who was also in the homeless system, and living in a local hostel.

The pair met while doing an art project, "and I thought he was a laugh," remembers Emma. "He invited me up to his section for pizza one night. He still owes me for that pizza!"

"He was the main reason I gave up drinking. He made it quite clear that he couldn't be with an alcoholic, so I was like right, I'll show you! I'm going to go and get myself sorted out."

And she did. In December 2008, Emma went into rehab at Fulbourn Hospital.

It was, she says, horrendous.

"There's only two beds there for people that are actually doing detox, the rest of it is for mental health patients.

"I walked in there and it was just this mayhem of people walking round talking to themselves, and throwing papier maché balls at me.

"I was rattling – that's where you need a drink, you sweat and feel sick, and really, really shake. And I thought 'Sod this!' But then I thought 'No, no...'"

Staff gave Emma tranquilisers which left her sleeping for three days, "And when I woke up I was more focused. I thought I actually could do this."

Keeping herself occupied was Emma's life-saver; she spent hours playing brain games like Boggle: "Some of the staff stayed on after their shifts to try and beat me; I am still the Boggle champion of Fulbourn Hospital!" she laughs.

Two weeks later, Emma came out – and was overjoyed to be placed in a shared house. "I was really lucky," she admits. "I was with two others and they weren't drinking, so that was amazing."

From that moment, Emma's life turned around.

Her relationship with Andy flourished, she started producing a radio show, Homeless Truths, on community station 209 Radio, and got involved with homeless action groups to keep herself busy.

"I had to have something to occupy myself," she says. "I get bored really, really easily. So I just got my teeth really stuck into putting something back, trying to make things better."

It wasn't long before Emma had something else to occupy her time – a new baby, Daisy, who is now seven months old.

"She's gorgeous. She is just absolutely wonderful," sighs Emma. Was she planned?

"No, I was drunk for 10 years, I didn't think it was possible!" she laughs.

Emma, Andy and Daisy now live together "in a nice little two-bedroom house in the suburbs of Cambridge," and life couldn't be better.

But Emma refuses to run away from her past.

These days, she throws all her spare time into Cambridge Link-Up, a community action group which she now chairs.

Its aim is to tap into homeless people's talents, award small grants and organise projects for the street community.

"It gives hope to people. I know it sounds really corny, but it gives people a bit of structure, and something else to focus on apart from how s their life is and where the next drink or drug hit is coming from."

Emma is also determined to change people's attitudes towards homelessness: "They have this perception that it's something people have brought upon themselves, but it's not! Nobody chooses to become homeless."

And she of all people knows it can happen to anyone; she's just relieved to have come through it.

"It's brilliant," she smiles. "But without things like Cambridge Link-Up, I can hand on heart say I wouldn't be here."

World Homeless Day

World Homeless Day was held on Sunday when Cambridge Link-Up organised a Sponsored Homeless Discovery Trail to raise much-needed funds.

The trail included places featured in Stuart: A Life Backwards by Alexander

Masters, Cambridge Link-Up Memorial Garden, and an exhibition of artwork by homeless artists such as Nick Ward at the Leper Chapel in Newmarket Road.

Borough studies move to new mayoral system

AN ELECTED mayor – like London – could head council services for Haverhill, if people support a change in the way St Edmundsbury Borough Council operates.

A consultation about a possible switch from the way the council currently runs ends on November 12.

At present, the council has a cabinet which is headed by the leader and up to nine other councillors.

The leader is elected every year by fellow councillors in a system which has operated at St Edmundsbury since 2002.

If political control of the council changes the leader can be removed before the end of his, or her, year of office.

But a mayor would be elected for a four-year term of office.

An alternative system with a leader elected for four years, with a possibly smaller cabinet, is also being considered.

A consultation on the switch was ordered by the previous Labour Government,

But the current coalition Government has warned that further changes could be made after next May's local elections.

Grants Shapps, the minister for housing and local government, has warned councils to carry out consultations at "minimal cost".

Consultation forms are available online at www.stedmundsbury.gov.uk/consultations or at the council offices in Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds.

Businesses get chance to quiz chief constable

TRADERS in Haverhill have been invited to an annual business crime forum at Suffolk's police headquarters.

The forum, at Martlesham police headquarters, will be hosted by Suffolk Police Authority on Tuesday, November 2.

It will be an opportunity for business leaders to put questions to Simon Ash, the chief constable (pictured right).

Areas for discussion will include:

■ What are the key crime issues for local businesses?

■ What is stopping more local businesses from becoming involved in local policing?

■ How can the police help business owners, their colleagues and employees feel safer?

■ 2012 Olympics – a great opportunity for businesses or for criminals?

■ An update from the chief constable on current business crime issues, the impact of future public sector spending cuts and feedback from last year's forum.

The event is run in partnership with Suffolk Police Authority, Suffolk Constabulary, Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, the Federation of Small Businesses, Ipswich and Suffolk Small Business Association and the National Farmers Union.

It is free to attend and will run from 5pm to around 8.15pm. Places can be booked by visiting www.suffolkchamber.co.uk or calling (01473) 694 805.

Songbird Kate wears heart on her sleeve

When she exploded on to the music scene in 2007 with her cockney-tinged lyrics speaking of the awkwardness of teenage romance and the vitriol of break-ups, Kate Nash became an overnight sensation.

The feisty songbird saw her debut album Made of Bricks – featuring her signature hit Foundations – go double platinum, catapulting her to the top of the album charts.

After the frenzy surrounding her died down, the guitar-wielding, piano-pounding singer-songwriter retreated from the glare of the music scene for a while. However, in April she was back in the limelight, with the release of her long-awaited second album My Best Friend Is You, signalling a coming of age for the 23-year-old.

Produced by the former Suede guitarist Bernard Butler, those expecting a retread of her pop debut will have to look elsewhere: this album introduces a grown-up Nash to the charts, one that deals firmly with the issue of female empowerment.

The album boasts more mature themes, a wider range of influences and much more challenging sounds – look no further than the raucous I Just Love You More, which was given away as a free download earlier this year. London born and bred, Nash says she feels good about her new album, pleased with the way it's turned out and rightfully sees the songs on it as a progression from those of Made of Bricks. "That can only be a good thing, right?" she asserts.

First single Do-Wah-Doo (sample lyric: "Everyone thinks she's a bit of alright but I think that she's not so nice / Everyone thinks that she's a lady, but I don't – I think that girl's shady") was inspired by the girl groups of the late 50s and early 60s, complete with the sort of rolling drums, strings, handclaps and 'doo-wop' rhythms you'd hear in records by The Ronettes or The Supremes.

"I really got into that sound," she enthuses. "I'd heard it when my parents played it when I was little, but really started listening to it when I was in Australia on tour in 2008. I picked up this box set called One Kiss Can Lead To Another, a collection of rare girl group singles, and I just found the writing amazing. I was on a plane and I heard Stop In The Name Of Love by The Supremes, a song I knew inside out, in a totally different light.

"As a kid it had this amazing dance beat and melody, but then I must have been feeling emotional on the plane – sometimes I get that, must be the altitude – and it just hit me that it's the saddest song ever. This woman is begging her partner to stop cheating on her, and she'll forgive him as long as he comes back, but she just needs him," she muses, stopping for a moment to let her dissection of the song sink in. "It's insane, and I'd never heard it like that before.

"That sort of music was all I was listening to for a while, I only wanted to listen to girl groups – The Ronettes, The Shirelles, The Crystals, The Chiffons, The Flirtations and The Angels and loads of others.

"That time period, late 50s and early 60s, was really interesting; a lot of people seemed to be in unhappy relationships, because it wasn't acceptable to get divorced. That situation just makes for the most heartbreaking music, because people pretended and put on a front – which might explain why that music is so 'up', but then the lyrics are so heartbreaking."

As was the case with Made of Bricks, Kate doesn't particularly write about herself and her own situation, so you won't hear love songs about her boyfriend, The Cribbs singer Ryan Jarman, on the album.

"I like to write the truth. I wear my heart on my sleeve, but at the same time I love theatre and fiction and stories as well. I might get bored just writing about myself anyway. I'd have to make sure I was always doing interesting stuff, wouldn't I? I couldn't just sit in and watch Jeremy Kyle."

THEGUIDE SCREEN THEATRE MUSIC

Joe and his Bruvvers kick off weekend

FOLLOWING his first brilliant show at Haverhill Arts Centre last night, Joe Brown and his Bruvvers will be back this evening. Tickets, £22.50, are going fast.

■ Local theatre group Centre Stage will take over the building for one of the most popular musicals of all time, Guys And Dolls. It's a story about a group of guys searching for a new place to house an illegal gambling den who happen across the unlikely setting of the local Salvation Army hall.

With hits such as Luck Be A Lady, Sit Down You're Rockin the Boat, If I Were a Bell, Take Back Your Mink, Bushel And A Peck and Adelaide's Lament, a good night will be had by all. The show runs from Tuesday until Saturday, October 23 at 7.30pm, with a matinee performance on Saturday at 2.30pm. Tickets £8/£9/£10.

■ In the cinema, When You're Strange (15) is the definitive story of American rock legends The Doors, uncovering historic and previously unseen footage of the illustrious rock quartet. Footage will be shown from the band's 1965 formation until Morrison's death in 1971. Narrated by Johnny Depp, it's on tomorrow at 7.45pm. Tickets £5/£4.

■ Take the youngsters to see the Freehand Theatre with Who's Been Sitting In My Chair? a puppet show for 3 to 7-year-olds. Join the bear hunt on Monday, October 25 from 2pm. Toy Story 3 (2D) is showing on Wednesday, October 27 at 10.30am and Thursday, October 28 at 2.30pm, and Cats And Dogs: The Revenge of Kitty Galore (PG) on Thursday, October 28 at 10.30am. Tickets £4/£4.50.

Feel the love as choir sings two new pieces

The Granta Chorale take to the stage this weekend to share music of love and art.

There are two chances to see this dynamic chamber choir, under the direction of Janet Wheeler, with performances in Isleham on Saturday and Cambridge on Sunday.

The choir sings a wide variety of music, from the renaissance to the modern day and the two concerts will include songs by Monteverdi and Mäntyjärvi, Banchieri, Byrd, Britten, Janet Wheeler and Eric Whitacre.

Saturday evening's concert at St Andrew's Church, Isleham, will explore the music of love in all its many forms, laced with flowers, spells and sleep.

In the Fitzwilliam Museum on Sunday lunchtime, the choir will link some pieces to exhibits in the museum to make a choral Picture at an Exhibition. Entry is free.

Both concerts offer the opportunity to hear the Granta Chorale perform two prominent new compositions. Time Becomes a Song is Wheeler's submission for the Making Music British Composers Award 2010 and celebrates the life and work of the Northamptonshire poet, John Clare.

Wheeler is a freelance composer and choral conductor. She read music at Cambridge then followed a career in secondary education, afterwards becoming a music producer for BBC Schools

DYNAMIC: there are two chances to see the Granta Chorale this weekend.

Radio primary music for eight years.

She has also conducted all manner of choirs including the New Cambridge Singers, the Orpheus Choir of North Herts and Carillon and formed the Granta Chorale in 2007.

The choir will also perform the internet's hit-in-the-making, Sleep, by Eric Whitacre. With help from some Granta Chorale singers and YouTube, the American composer is using this song in a bid to create the world's largest online choir!

Whitacre is a world renowned composer, conductor and lecturer, and has become one of the most popular and performed composers of his generation. He is Composer in Residence at Sidney Sussex College at Cambridge University this term.

He became an internet phenomenon when he broke the digital mould with Virtual Choir, an extraordinary technological feat. Whitacre conducted 185 online singers by video, whose vocal parts were then painstakingly edited together.

The result was a video masterpiece attracting over one million views within 60 days.

He has just announced Virtual Choir 2011, a larger version using his composition, Sleep, that aims to be the world's largest online choir.

■ The Granta Chorale – Saturday, 7.30pm, St Andrew's Church, Isleham, tickets £8 (children £2), phone (01799) 541270; Sunday, 1.15pm, Gallery 3, Fitzwilliam Museum.

Night of classical comedy

CLASSICAL music meets comedy tomorrow as Rainer Hersch headlines Custard Comedy's night at Comberton Leisure.

Described as "Victor Borge for a new generation" by The Times, Hersch is a musician and comedian who performs on every major comedy stage in Britain and abroad. He has appeared eight times at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival; toured Canada five times and performed in comedy clubs across Europe and in TV shows around the world. He's also a frequent and popular guest on Radio 4's Loose Ends.

Support on the night comes from affable Nik Coppin and the quick-fire gags of Tony Cowards.

And the night's compere? Who else but Comberton favourite Henry Paker, who is "rarely less than superb", according to Chortle.

The laughs start at 8.15pm and the show is strictly over 18s only. Tickets £8 (£6 cons) in advance or £10 (£8 cons) on the door.

They are available in advance from Comberton Leisure on (01223) 264444 or online at www.wegotickets.com/event/92259

The big film

WALL STREET: MONEY NEVER SLEEPS
certificate 12A 132m

MORE than 20 years after Michael Douglas won an Oscar as scheming Wall Street trader Gordon Gekko in Oliver Stone's acclaimed film, the character's mantra – "Greed is good" – rings louder and clearer than ever.

The global recession continues to bite and much of the blame is laid at the revolving doors of avaricious bankers, who took big risks and enjoyed massive bonuses for their spectacular failure. Against this backdrop of mismanagement, writer-director Stone returns to the hallowed halls of New York's financial district, where banks go cap in hand to the US government for bail-outs.

Aside from a brief cameo from Charlie Sheen as Bud Fox, Gekko is the only returning character for the sequel, which pits Douglas's dinosaur, who has been languishing behind bars, against a new generation of men in suits.

The global financial landscape may have changed but the pursuit of profits at the expense of friendships and the natural world has not.

The film opens in 2008 with Gekko (Douglas) being released from jail with his effects, which include a gold money clip and a hefty, brick-like mobile phone.

He emerges into a world that is firmly controlled by the financial community and teetering on the brink of ruin. He finds new success with a best-selling book and tour. In the audience is ambitious trader Jake Moore (Shia LaBeouf), who is the boyfriend of Gekko's estranged daughter Winnie (Carey Mulligan).

He is inspired by Gekko's words but knows that making contact would jeopardise his relationship with the woman of his dreams.

When Jake's mentor Louis Zabel (Frank Langella) commits suicide after his company is taken over by vicious rival Bretton James (Josh Brolin), the young man swears revenge and enlists the help of Gekko to destroy Bretton and the people he works for.

Wall Street: Money Never Sleeps bares its teeth at the banking community but ultimately doesn't draw blood, using the recession as a hook for a retread of the original film, with tearful father-daughter bonding thrown in for good measure.

LaBeouf and Mulligan are well matched as they struggle to keep their relationship afloat in a sea of lies and betrayal.

Douglas relishes the chance to slip back into the designer threads of his signature role.

Underestimate him at your peril.

An apple a day – it's not hard to do

Just one bite of a ripe, crisp apple picked straight off the tree should be enough of a mouth-watering experience to make most gardeners want to grow at least one variety in their own garden.

Apples are the taste of autumn and there are many apple events at this time of year around the country, inviting people to try new varieties, offering growing advice and looking at how to avoid pests and diseases.

Yet, apples are not difficult to grow and there are enough varieties to cater for virtually any amount of space you may have, even if you only have room for one in a container.

The RHS – whose festival, A Taste Of Autumn, runs from October 21-24, celebrating apples and other autumn produce with events at its four RHS gardens in Wisley (Surrey), Harlow Carr (Harrogate), Hyde Hall (Essex) and Rosemoor (Devon), and hundreds of RHS recommended gardens around the UK – has now launched a new apple guide offering tips on choosing a variety, cultivation and troubleshooting.

by Hannah Stephenson

Apples can be grown in a range of forms, including traditional open-centred trees, cordons (single stem with short side-shoots) and espaliers (trained to grow on a flat plane, often symmetrical and against a wall or fence). You need to choose your tree according to the space available.

There is also a wide range of rootstocks, from dwarfing to vigorous, but for a medium-sized bush tree or a cordon, choose the semi-dwarfing M26 rootstock.

To crop well, apple trees also need pollination from another tree, so be sure to choose varieties from the same or a close pollination group.

Bare-root trees can be planted when dormant, from late autumn until early spring. Apples thrive in a well-drained soil, at least 60cm (2ft) deep. Add well-rotted organic matter before planting and mulch and water through the growing season until your tree is growing well. Apples prefer a sheltered, frost-free position in full sun, though providing they receive half a day's sunshine in the growing season they will tolerate some shade.

Once established, your apple tree will need very little care throughout the year, but a little love will go a long way to keeping it healthy. Keep it weed-free and water it during dry spells and when the fruit starts to swell, particularly if it is newly planted or in a container.

In early spring sprinkle a balanced general fertiliser (such as Growmore) around the base. To ensure the best crop, prune the tree every year.

Apple trees can suffer from a variety of common problems such as brown rot, apple scab and other diseases, often derived from poor levels of calcium, erratic watering or wet summers. The RHS apple guide offers advice on how to alleviate these problems.

Most apples will be ready to pick sometime between August and October, depending on the variety. As with most fruit, the obvious way of testing if an apple is ready for picking is to taste it. The other telltale sign is if there are a few lying on the ground around the tree (called windfalls). The fruit should have swelled to a good size and started to colour up.

The RHS's recommended varieties include 'Blenheim Orange', used early for cooking, 'Discovery', a red-flushed dessert apple, 'Egremont Russet', a dessert type which is good for storage, and 'Pixie', a Cox's type apple which produces small fruits ideal for children.

■ Full details of how to grow your own apples and other fruit and vegetables can be found on the RHS website at www.rhs.org.uk/Gardening/Grow-Your-Own

BEST OF THE BUNCH Kaffir lily (Schizostylis)

These elegant, autumn-flowering perennials are ideally placed in a sunny, sheltered spot in soil which is well-drained in winter but doesn't dry out in summer, so you may need to improve the soil with applications of garden compost or well-rotted manure.

The rhizomes should be planted 2.5-5cm (1-2in) deep in spring and you'll need to plant several plants around 30cm (12in) apart to give any impact. They can grow to around 80cm (31in) tall and make great companions for asters, while pink-flowered varieties also complement silver foliage plants well. Kaffir lilies are hardy in most areas but you'll need to cover them with a thick winter mulch or grow them in pots under glass in colder regions. In winter, cut down the stems and protect the crowns with chipped bark.

MOUTH-WATERING: the Royal Horticultural Society has published a new guide on how to grow apples, even in the smallest gardens or in containers.

Popular varieties include S. coccinea 'Major', which bears big, deep red flowers, while 'Fenland Daybreak' is a smaller variety which bears pink flowers from August to November.

Half drivers would pay to drive faster

ALMOST half of all motorists would happily pay a fee to speed on British roads, according to a new survey by Motorpoint.

A poll by the car supermarket giant revealed 45 per cent of people quizzed on the company's website would fork out to be able to legally exceed the speed limit. More than 983 people took part in the study.

The news comes in the wake of a radical proposal by a Nevada state mayoral candidate for a 'speed pass' system that would allow motorists to pay £16 a day to drive at speeds of up to 90mph on certain roads after registering with the scheme.

David Shelton, managing director of Motorpoint, said: "Whilst there is a temptation to speed at certain times, we would urge drivers to give themselves more time with their journey in order to avoid breaking the law."

Aston readies to launch Cygnet

ASTON MARTIN is pleased to confirm that the Cygnet luxury city car – originally shown as a concept car in March – is to go into production in 2011 at the company's Gaydon headquarters in Warwickshire.

The Aston Martin Cygnet is a city car that sets a new benchmark for compact luxury, building upon nearly a century of experience building high performance sports cars, luxurious long-range grand tourers, and extremely competitive racing machines.

Cygnet demonstrates Aston Martin's commitment to innovation and integrity.

"It is time to think differently. Aston Martin is honest and we don't make compromises," says Aston Martin CEO Dr Ulrich Bez.

"Whatever we do, we do right. If we do performance, we do performance; we don't downsize or compromise our sports cars. The Cygnet needs to satisfy the demands of emissions and space. It is a car without compromise, just like every other Aston Martin.

"Our customers need a small car for urban and city use, and they want the right tools for the right job, to downsize creatively without compromising intelligence, artistry and personality."

Cygnet expresses a simple but fundamental idea: in the modern city, scale equates to speed and freedom. At just three metres long, the Cygnet gives the driver a new dimension of freedom, able to slot into gaps in traffic, exploit the smallest parking spaces, consume the least fuel and emit the lowest emissions, all while delivering exceptional levels of quality and comfort.

"Cygnet is small but luxurious, an Aston Martin tailor fit for the city," says Marek Reichman, Aston Martin's director of design. "With an almost unlimited palette of materials, colours and textures, each hand-finished Cygnet will be truly unique, a personalised space within the city. Luxury is not constrained by scale."

"The Cygnet is designed to support our sports cars by providing a greater degree of freedom in the urban context; it is a very special car, a premium but compact package with heart, soul and personality."

The Cygnet, a tailor-fit solution for the city, will help drive Aston Martin into the future. "This car is reality," says Dr Ulrich Bez. "Cygnet is the natural choice for those who want a premium, bespoke commuter car."

Further details on the Aston Martin Cygnet including pricing and specification will be announced later this year. The Cygnet will be the eighth major production car Aston Martin has introduced at its state-of-the-art factory since 2004, offering further evidence of the company's ongoing commitment to British manufacturing, backed-up by a dedicated local workforce and supplier network.

Toyota's Verso-S is a new mini-MPV option

THE TOYOTA VERSO-S: 51.4mpg.

TOYOTA will return to the mini-MPV (B-MPV) market in 2011 with the new Verso-S, its first contender in a segment it created itself in 1999 with the launch of Yaris Verso.

Verso-S will compete in part of the European new car market that has almost tripled in size since 2002, thanks to more motorists downsizing and seeking small cars with high levels of interior flexibility.

Verso-S is available with the Toyota Optimal Drive 1.33-litre Dual VVT-i petrol engine. Matched to a six-speed manual transmission, it generates a peak 98bhp at 6,000rpm and peak torque of 126Nm at 4,000rpm. Toyota targets a class-leading combined cycle fuel economy of 51.4mpg, with 127g/km CO2 emissions.

Lotus unveils bold expansion plans for new supercar era

THE renowned Norfolk sports car marque of Lotus is launching a string of new and replacement models over the next five years – and they're all stunning, writes Phil Vaughan.

An ambitious investment programme in new models will put the famous British marque firmly in contention for the global supercar crown within just a few short years.

Spring 2013 will see the launch of the new 5.0-litre V8 Esprit, a superbly-sculpted sports car that has a claimed top speed of 200mph – and which can rocket to 62mph from a standing start in a matter of 3.4 seconds.

The firm, based in Hethel, Norfolk, says the 612bhp Esprit's incredible performance makes it the ultimate supercar, yet it won't cost the earth – Lotus is projecting it to retail for around £110,000.

The firm's managing director, Dany Bahar, says the focus this time round will be firmly on the car, and not films – previous Esprits have starred alongside James Bond, and enjoyed roles in Pretty Woman and Basic Instinct.

Bahar admits: "There's a fine balance between acknowledging the greatness of the past while at the same time rapidly leaping forward to the future, and ensuring that this car not only does the name Esprit justice but also the Lotus brand.

"I think we've managed to find the balance and in doing so created a new icon, a car people will find hard to resist. The design is aggressive, I'm very proud of this car."

Autumn 2013 will see the launch of the new 190mph Elan, which gets a 444bhp 4.0-litre V6 engine and a £75,000 price tag.

Bahar hopes that the Elan will convert people to Lotus, for it goes a long way towards dispelling the old misconceptions about this sub-supercar class – that in order to have high performance you must sacrifice usability. With the new 2+2 Elan, those days are gone, says Bahar.

Moving on to spring 2014, the ground-breaking new Elite drop-top, which also gets a 5.0-litre amidships engine and performance figures close to those of the Esprit, will have the option of hybrid technology. Lotus says it will cost circa £115,000.

Bahar feels there is a clear market for the Elite, and believes there is nothing else on the market to match it for style and performance.

Industry experts say Lotus could also launch a compact and frugal city car the same year, but nothing has yet been confirmed.

A full five years hence, in 2015, will come the Lotus Eterne. It's a four-door, four-seater GT model again with the 5.0-litre, pressure-charged V8 engine, with Lotus saying this will cost around £120,000 when it launches.

Of the Eterne, Bahar says: "The biggest difference between the Eterne and class competitors is that it is not an evolution of an existing two-door model, it's a deliberate and considered stand-alone creation. This is the ultimate four-door sports car."

Joining the Lotus line-up at the same time will be the new two-seater, 2.0-litre Elise, a lightweight four-cylinder sports car expected to cost a more affordable £35,000.

Of this entry-level Lotus, a replacement for the current popular Elise, Bahar says: "The Elise you can buy now is still a fantastic car, make no mistake, Lotus remain very proud of it, but this is a natural progression for us moving forward."

"The Elise 2015 will also be class-leading in terms of performance and efficiency."

The succession of new and replacement Lotus models will also boost the presence on the world stage of the marque's Malaysian owner, Proton, which took over the firm in 1996.

THE NEW LOTUS ELISE: 'A natural progression', says Lotus' boss Dany Bahar.

THE LOTUS ELAN: 444bhp 5-litre V6 stunner will be priced at around £75,000.

General Vacancies

Lay Trustee Appointment

Registered Charity No: 1048868

Ref: E10881C

 Making a difference for patients

The Addenbrooke's Charitable Trust (ACT) has an income of approximately £6.5m p.a. and holds charitable assets worth £19m on behalf of the Cambridge University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. The charity has an established track record in fundraising but has ambitious plans including a major capital campaign in support of significant developments on the hospital campus.

The Trustees are fully independent of the management of the hospitals, are accountable to the Charity Commission and are appointed by the Appointments Commission on behalf of the Secretary of State for Health under the provisions of Section 51 of the National Health Service Act 2006.

Two vacancies will shortly occur on the Trustee Body and we are therefore seeking to recruit two outstanding individuals who wish to make a significant contribution to the development of our charitable funds.

Applicants will need to demonstrate strong leadership and people skills with considerable experience and proven ability in areas such as the public sector, business, the professions, successful fundraising, banking and/or investment management.

Trustees are appointed for an initial term of up to four years with the opportunity for a further term. They must be prepared to devote sufficient time to the work, which would normally be between 6 and 12 days per year. Trustees are not remunerated although reasonable out of pocket expenses may be reimbursed. Applicants must be over 18, and must not be current employees of the NHS.

Informal enquiries may be directed to Keith Day, ACT Chief Executive on 01223 256099.

For more information, and to apply online, please visit the website www.appointments.org.uk. Alternatively you can call 0870 240 3802 quoting reference E10881C for a hard copy of the information pack or request an alternative format such as Braille, large print or audio.

The closing date for applications is 16 November 2010 at noon.

Please note: Interviews for this post will be held in Cambridge week commencing 6 December 2010.

We value and promote diversity and are committed to equality of opportunity for all and appointments made on merit. We believe that the best boards are those that reflect the communities they serve.

Ince perfect as Hawks soar

Hunden Hawks 3 Comberton Crusaders 0 Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12D

HUNDON chalked up their fifth consecutive victory in an entertaining game.

Hawks did not start to take control until the end of the first half and broke through just before the interval when Brannon Ince struck. Leading scorer Anders Pilley then gave them breathing space with his sixth goal in five games, before Ince wrapped up the points with his second of the game.

Waveney Colts 2 Haverhill Rovers 1 (aet) Tesco Suffolk Cup, under-13 first round

A GOAL seconds from the end of extra time condemned Rovers to defeat on their longest road trip of the season to date.

It was a cruel ending to a game in which the visitors broke the deadlock in the first half when Chidera Nkem Paul left three defenders trailing in a mazy run before slotting home.

The same player looked poised to make it 2-0 in the second half but appeared to be fouled when put through on goal. The referee, however, waved away claims for a penalty.

And that proved to be the turning point, Waveney equalising from a free kick with 20 minutes remaining and, with a shootout looming, they scored winner with almost the last kick of the game.

S-Htech Rov 6 Huntingdon Rowdies 1 St-Rich Cambs Girls League, under-16

ALISHA Jenkins capped a good team performance with a sensational sixth goal.

With Rowdies already on the ropes,

Wratting posting a nets gain . . .

WEST Watting have received a Football Foundation grant to buy 9v9 goalposts. They were awarded £493 to buy the 16ft x 7ft goals for the new Cambs Mini League 9v9 under-11 competition. Since 1991 nine youngsters in the UK have been killed by unsafe goals while many more have been injured and Watting chairman Kevin Ager said: "This funding towards new, safer goalposts is a fantastic boost.

"Football is our national sport and it is great that the Football Foundation is investing in improving the grassroots of the game."

■ The West Watting under-11s line up in their new goal before their 8-2 win against Swavesey Spartans in the League Cup. CP

Jenkins collected the ball in her own half, beat four players and coolly converted.

Charlotte Westrope gave Rovers a flying start and Stacey Roper picked herself up after being fouled to convert the spot-kick and put Rovers 2-0 up at the break.

After that it was largely one-way traffic as Chloe Ellis, Roper again, and Katie Schulz scored before Jenkins' sparkling finish.

■ The under-16s are still looking for new players. Anyone interested should call Steve Hull on 07759016470 or go to the website www.haverhillroversyfc.co.uk

Ely 65 Haverhill 20

Under-11

HAVERHILL'S first game of the season proved to be a tough contest against an imposing Ely side.

Brandon Mackay scored two tries and kicked four conversions to score the lion's share of Haverhill's points, but they could not take advantage of a string of penalties awarded against Ely, who punished any mistakes by their visitors.

Josh Moseley scored the other Haverhill tries.

■ A combined Haverhill and Royston side took on Ely at Royston, winning the first contest 10-0 but losing the second 15-0.

The combined side started well in the opening game with strong defensive work from Jack Watson, Oscar Howard and Emma-Jo Hines. Some good attacking play from Adam Loveridge, Dean Cleary and Elliot MacPhail led to George Harvey scoring both tries to secure the win.

The second encounter proved much tougher with Ely proving stronger.

Mackay's points are all in vain

It's simple for Simon

Fakenham 6 Haverhill 25

Greene King IPA Eastern League

HAVERHILL turned round their ill-discipline in the first half to clinch their first win of the season.

They got off the mark when Kieran Ewens' penalty hit the bar and bounced back, but Brad Gibson was alert and had followed the kick to intercept.

He set the ball up for the forwards with scrum-half Gavin Hope spinning it wide for Simon Lester to get Haverhill's first try of the campaign.

Hooker Ben Jackson was sin-binned as a result of Haverhill's persistent infringing, and on 23 minutes, another penalty allowed Fakenham to reduce the score to 5-3, and a further penalty through indiscipline allowed Fakenham to kick into a 6-5 lead.

But, on 53 minutes, Gibson released Brodie Patrick after a flowing move along the line to score in the corner.

From a line-out, quick ball let Lester in for Haverhill's third try.

Fakenham had a player shown a red card, and soon Haverhill had their bonus-point winning fourth try. Sam Powell won good line-out ball and Lester was put in to complete his hat-trick.

From the kick off, Martin Ransome intercepted a pass before finding Gavin Hope, whose kick was swept up by Gibson to touch down.

"The first half we kept them in the game with a bit of indiscipline to the referee, and a yellow card in the front row," said skipper Gavin Hope. "The second half we came out a lot better and obviously we got the four-try bonus point as well."

"We carried on from last week. Our whole team is really chuffed and now hopefully we have got things back on track. For the second week in a row we've not conceded a try."

Cornelius 'Rayns'

MICK Cornelius won the M Rayner Cup at the Haverhill club in a tight finish.

He won on countback from Dave Humphries with Dan Wilkins a couple of shots back in third.

As a result, the winner and runner-up have had their handicaps reduced by one.

Details - 1 Mick Cornelius 85-20-65 on countback from 2 Dave Humphries 76-11-65, 3 Dan Wilkins 87-20-67.

The opposite was true in the ladies medal when Jacqueline Condon stormed to a comprehensive win in the ladies' medal, winning by five shots in difficult conditions from nearest challenger Doreen Darbey.

Details - 1 Jacqueline Condon 95-19-76, 2 Doreen Darbey 109-28-81, 3 Marion Kendall 105-23-82.

Haverhill's men's team were beaten 5-3 at Abbotsley, while the seniors lost 6½-1½ at Hintlesham but managed to extend their unbeaten home record with a narrow 4½-3½ defeat of Diss.

>> Gymnastics

CHARLOTTE McKenna achieved her aim of reaching the final of the women's individual all-round final at the Commonwealth Games in Delhi.

Representing Northern Ireland, the part-time coach at Haverhill Gymnastics Club was the lowest-ranked of the 24 competitors, finishing with 45.750 points. But the teenager, a member of the all-conquering Huntingdon Olympic club, said: "It's been a great experience and I've had an excellent time just taking part in the competition."

"I made a mistake on the beam, which I wasn't very happy about at all."

"But I made it to the final, so it was okay I guess."

That's what I was aiming for, so something paid off."

McKenna's satisfied with final effort

Rovers go up a gear to keep Betts happy

Woodbridge Tn 0 Haverhill Rov 5

Ridgeons League, Premier Division

PETER Betts was thrilled to see his Haverhill Rovers side continue their impressive run of form with a 5-0 win at Woodbridge Town on Saturday.

However, there was no repeat in the LB Suffolk Premier Cup on Wednesday, when Rovers were beaten 3-2 by the same opposition.

After a goalless first half on Saturday, Jack Higgs broke the deadlock in the 50th minute with the first of two goals.

Dan Emmanuel also netted twice with Marcus Hunt rounding off the scoring in the dying minutes.

"I'm delighted with the league result," said Betts.

"I've never won there as a manager before, so to go and get a 5-0 win is great."

"The lads played really well. Woodbridge tried to frustrate us in the first half but we didn't lose our discipline and in the second half we upped the ante."

"That's what was really pleasing. We didn't get frustrated and continued to play the same way. Everyone performed really well."

Rovers are away to Great Yarmouth in the league on Saturday.
